Could Happen - Let's Prepare...

President Eisenhower's proclamation of Sept. 9-10 National Civil Defense Week focuses attention on civil defense need in our own community.

No one likes to think of atomic attacks on America. But the enemy, about cities blasted into roaring masses of about millions of evacuated people streaming into the rural countryside.

Because it isn't the kind of thing we like to think of, many of us refuse to think about it. "It isn't possible," or "If it is possible, 'We can't hope to survive.' It's the kind of reasoning that spells defeat, even defeat."

You wouldn't stand by while your barn was burning. You could save even half of it, you'd work to save it. You wouldn't stand by in our community today, because the threat of enemy attack is real and there is something we can do about it.

We can plan now, prepare now to work together for our common survival. The organization for that is civil defense.

The enemy has nuclear weapons and the means to use them against America. When he is ready to attack, he won't wait. Why should we? Let's get ready. Our first job is to learn how to take care of ourselves and our families in any emergency. Civil defense helps us with that.

Our second job is to be ready to meet the threat of nuclear fallout, either by taking shelter or evacuation. Again, civil defense can show us how to prepare. Another task is to prepare to care for the people evacuated from target cities. They will help to care for themselves too. And together, we can work to put America quickly back on its feet, to fight back and win. By helping evacuees, we'll be helping ourselves. Survival depends on this complete cooperation.

We'll also have to be ready to help in the attacked cities — to save lives and salvage as much of America's resources as possible. Our help will be vitally necessary to the nation's survival.

Some of us should be trained as rescue crews, some as fire fighters, others as first aid teams, others as auxiliary policemen, emergency vehicle crews. Civil defense is ready to help us get this training now. It's double-barreled training, too. It can be mighty important to taking care of our families and property.

These facts cannot be denied: We're on the potential battle fronts, right along with the big cities. The enemy can attack our nation, hard and horribly. We can survive, recover, fight back to win — if we are prepared. Civil defense is that preparedness.

It is up to us as individuals, and to the community as a whole, to see that we have a civil defense organization strong enough to insure our survival.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVANTAGE OF 23 YEARS AGO

Sept. 14, 1933

Efforts have been made by a committee of the County Chamber of Commerce with M. A. Bates as chairman, to get some aid for connecting highways between Grayling and Mio, running straight east from the Feldhauser school to an intersecting road that crosses the McMaster bridge. When built this route will shorten the road distance between these two communities from 10 to 15 miles and will open a region east of Grayling that at the present time is difficult to get to.

To live in one place for fifty-five years and to be held through out that time in affection and high esteem by an entire community, is a record which few may boast. Grayling's Grand Old Lady, Mrs. Rasmus Hanson, reached her eighty-eighth birthday, September 7th. Friends and relatives gathered at her home both afternoon and evening in celebration of the occasion.

Tony Nelson is feeling pretty happy over his appointment as maintenance superintendent for the State Highway Department in Crawford County.

Dr. C. J. Green spent the week end in Bay City visiting relatives. Bertha Frey and Max Van Han spent the week end visiting relatives and friends in Cheboygan.

Mrs. William McEvers and children Barry, Calvin, Ivan and Virginia, visited her daughter, Mrs. Irvin Towns and family in Pontiac last week.

Mrs. Ernest Hoell, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John Cottle, of Rudyard, Mich., left Sunday for Chicago to visit the Century of Progress.

Frank Bond of Olivet, who is taking the position made vacant by the death of Miss Rosalind Lewis, as teacher of Sciences, will be joined later by Mrs. Bond to take up their residence here.

Miss Eleanor Reinhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Reinhardt of Bay City, was united in marriage to Mr. Emory Stringer of the same place at the St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon. Rev. A. F. Westendorf officiated at the ceremony, and the bride's twin sister, Miss Elma, was her only attendant. Mrs. Reinhardt was formerly Anna Jensen, a Grayling girl.

Miss Helen Lietz is on nursing duty at Mercy Hospital this week. Miss Beatrice Turner of Mason, is the guest of Miss Frances Mickelson.

Mrs. Alfred Hanson entertained the Danish Sisterhood at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Otto Siedel is returning to her home in Detroit today after spending the summer here.

Mrs. Robert Nelson and Mr. Robert Nelson of Marshall were week end guests of Mrs. Ellen Failing.

The first killing frost of the season appeared during Monday night. In some places it was quite killing, while in other places little or no damage was done.

Lieut. and Mrs. R. E. Bates and three children have returned to East Lansing where Lieut. Bates will resume his duties at Michigan State College as military instructor. He has had charge of the Luzerne CCC Camp No. 661 during the summer months, while his family spent the summer at Lake Margrethe.

Mrs. Wilfred Laurant entertained twenty-eight boys and girls at a lawn party at her home Sunday afternoon in honor of Billy and Jack Atwell, and most of the guests were little neighborhood friends. Games and contests were enjoyed and Clayton Gorman and Frank Tetu III were the winners of the boys prize and Dorothy Atwell and Betty Brown for the girls. Refreshments were served on the lawn. Besides those above the following were there: Joan Montour, Letha Tinker, Patsy Hope Heric, Bobby and Jerry Smock, Donald and Barbara Borchers, Joy Wells, Beatrice Brown, Jean Morris, Dick and Billy Lauran, Bruce Nelson, Sally Jane McClain, Richard Nelson, Jack Rasmussen, Edward, Earl, Thyra and Elsie Nelson, Patricia and Betty Hewitt.

Devere Dawson left Monday morning for Grand Rapids, where he will work for an indefinite time in an A.P. Store there.

Mrs. Emil Giegling and children returned to Grayling from Marquette the latter part of the week after being there for several months. Mr. Giegling accompanied them but returned there where he is looking after the lumber interests of the Kerry & Hanson Flooring Company.

Little Joan Corwin, 17 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Menno Corwin when given a golf ball, while at the club house with her mother one day recently, ran over to No. 9 hole and put the ball into it. She knew where it belonged and no doubt will be one of the ring leaders in the golf game when she grows up.

A daughter, Nilah Jean, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Scott of Roscommon on Wednesday, Sept. 6th. Mother and babe are doing nicely. The mother was formerly Miss Eva Mae Ostrander of Grayling.

National Scout Leader To Visit Paul Bunyan Council

People interested in rural boys from all over the five counties of the Northland District, Paul Bunyan Council, Boy Scouts of America, which includes Crawford County, are being invited to discuss with Mr. Griffin the extension of the Boy Scout program, especially to the boys who live in the open country.

Eugene B. Kelly, Chairman of Organization and Extension for the Paul Bunyan Council, states that Mr. Griffin plans to encourage the use of the Lone Scout plan and the Neighborhood Patrol idea where there are not enough boys for a Boy Scout Troop or Cub Scout Pack.

Mr. Kelly is particularly interested in having present at the meeting key rural people such as township supervisors, school teachers, rural ministers, and letter carriers; leaders in Farm Bureau, Grade 4-H, Veterans Organizations, service clubs, and women's groups.

Civil Defense Week Is Being Observed Throughout Nation

By William L. Shaffner
Rural Consultant Federal Civil Defense Administration

National Civil Defense Week is being observed currently throughout the country, with the emphasis being given to the importance of immediate civil defense organizing, planning and training in the smaller cities and rural communities outside the highly industrialized metropolitan "target areas."

The week was inaugurated on Sunday with a special nationwide radio and TV message from President Roosevelt. The first national observance of a civil defense week, communities throughout the nation are making the week with evacuation drills, recruiting campaigns, public meetings, distribution of civil defense literature and demonstration of civil defense skills in rescue, fire fighting, first aid and mass feeding.

In numerous communities the observance has been highlighted by the start of new civil defense training classes, or by the inauguration of steps for setting up civil defense organizations in areas not previously organized for civil defense.

One widely distributed leaflet—R. F. D.—Rural Family Defense—was devoted entirely to the problems of civil defense in rural areas. It is pointed out that it is the duty and responsibility of every family and every community to be prepared for natural disasters or for the possibility of an enemy attack on the nation, and that this calls for planning now.

Suggestions on the role of rural areas in the national planning for civil defense include the following:

1. The principles of civil defense are not new to rural people. You have been taking care of your own, helping your neighbors, and ready to help others—in peace-time emergencies—for a long time. But the problems and dangers posed by enemy attack can be met and answered only by organization.
2. Civil defense is that organization. It is you and your neighbors, your community, planning and preparing with the help and guidance of trained people—your local and county civil defense organization. Talk about the problems in your home and with your neighbors. In meetings of your Grange, Clubs, and similar groups.
3. If there is no civil defense organization in your immediate area, join your neighbors in building one, around your local board of county commissioners or its counterpart. Trained people are ready to help you build a civil defense organization around your local community and coordinate it into an overall county plan.

4. If your county is not organized to include your community plan, insist to your county commissioners or supervisors that it be done.

Stimulation of public interest in civil defense, with the resulting impetus to the establishment of new civil defense organizations, is the primary purpose of National Civil Defense Week.

While civil defense is as important to the security of the nation as military defense, it is not a mere preparation for a war which everyone hopes never will occur. The organization and training for a possible war disaster has a double value in that it strengthens and prepares communities for dealing with natural disasters and emergencies.

Civil defense has another role, characterized by President Eisenhower as "one of the three pillars of peace." By keeping America so strong that potential enemies know the nation cannot be defeated or demoralized, civil defense is a strong deterrent to war.

It is in this role—that of a positive force for peace—that the true nature of civil defense is revealed. Awakening of a public awareness to this dynamic concept of civil defense is the goal of National Civil Defense Week.

Rev. and Mrs. Scott

A series of evangelistic services will be held at the Immanuel Baptist Church in Roscommon beginning on Monday, September 17, and continuing through Sunday, September 23. Services will begin promptly at 7:30 each evening.

The speaker will be Rev. O. Ferris Scott from Holt, Michigan. Rev. Scott was a successful pastor for many years. Feeling that there was a need of men in the field of full-time evangelism who knew and understood pastoral and church problems, he felt the call of God to enter this career several years ago. He is an excellent speaker and Bible teacher. Mrs. Scott will accompany her husband and will assist in calling and personal work in the services. They are well known in this area, having conducted evangelistic campaigns in several nearby churches.

Pastor Erickson will have charge of the music. There will be a good song service and special music every evening. Musical groups from nearby churches will add to the services.

Everyone is invited to attend and to join with us in this effort to win souls for the Lord Jesus Christ.
